1. Introduction

Softonomy Ô, a company headquartered in Ireland and serving businesses within the EU, have partnered with remote service providers based in low-cost locations to seamlessly provide the benefits of "Combined Software Services".

This offering provides software development and related services to Customers with the benefits of Local delivered services in combination with the cost advantages of low-cost Remote resources.

Combined Software Services provide the full range of software development functions, meeting the needs of Customers with:

- Project Management
- System Architecture
- Analysis & Design
- Building
- Testing
- Deployment
- Maintenance & Support

There are many advantages for Customers that use our Combined Software Services, such as:

- High Quality – assured service quality using global service standards with local service management
- Responsive – local, fast and on-site service delivery as and when necessary, bolstered by an around-the-clock service capability if or when required
- Low Risk – locally managed services from a local European company delivered under local national and/or EU business regulations
- Low Cost – managed access to skilled low-cost remote resources that complement local skilled resources in all areas of the software development process
- Effective – transparent delivery of local and remote service components delivered in partnership => ease of management

2. Combined Software Services

Whether you have software development needs that are large or small, these needs can be catered for with the provision of Combined Software Services.

To date, you may or may not have considered outsourcing some or all of your software development requirements. Whatever your case may be, we can offer you a service that is high in service quality, has lower cost and maintains a local hands-on focus. This reduces management overhead and provides a locally delivered service with the cost benefits.
